

City and County of Broomfield Adult Softball Illegal Bat List 2013

Effective Spring season of 2013 all A.S.A. approved bats will be legal in Broomfield. Bats should bear the ASA 2000 or ASA 2004 approved certification mark or 2013 shield.

There WILL be changes for Certification Mark and Test Standard for all bats used in the game of ASA Slow Pitch Softball for the 2013 season.

There will be a new Certification Mark to be used on future bat models manufactured for the game of Slow Pitch for 2013 and beyond. The current 2000 and 2004 Certification Marks will continue to be valid Marks for the existing Slow Pitch bats.

Any new models produced by the manufacturers will display the new Certification Mark for bats used in the game of Slow Pitch Softball for ASA.

The new certification mark will look like this image (ASA Shield): All bats currently listed on the approved bat lists will remain legal for ASA; ASA will continue to perform random testing of all approved models to verify conformance of the approved bat performance standard, any model found out of compliance could be added to the non-approved list. All models currently listed on the non-approved list will not be allowed in ASA.

NOTE: All Titanium and Inertia Bats are illegal in Broomfield.

With new bats coming out monthly, it becomes extremely difficult to keep our bat list up to date. At some point in the year it could be possible that a bat may be illegal for league play but not yet on our list. This list is subject to change. Understand, we must try to stay on top of what we feel will be safe for our participants.
